Cal EOC Incident - 2014 Drought

SOC / Inland REOC remains activated in support of 2014 Drought

Weather

WEATHER SYNOPSIS BY REGION:

NORTHERN CALIFORNIA AND CENTRAL COASTAL AREAS:

Medford Weather:

A strong warming trend with record high temperatures will occur today and Thursday with a few high clouds as the only exception to sunny skies. A coastal thermal trough will move inland on Thursday and result in a return of cooler onshore flow at the coast while temperatures peak inland.

Eureka Weather:

A building ridge will bring above normal temperatures and dry conditions to the region through Thursday. Chances for showers will increase late in the week especially across the interior mountains.

Reno Weather:

Warm and dry weather will continue into Thursday, with afternoon highs near 80 degrees in the lower elevations. A change to a cooler and wetter pattern is likely late Friday and through this weekend as low pressure moves across California and Nevada. Additional storm systems may keep chances for precipitation going into next week.

San Francisco Weather:

A robust warming trend remains on track for today with potentially record breaking temperatures possible. Temperatures are expected to cool off on Thursday as onshore flow returns and a southerly stratus surge rushes northward up the coast. Chances for showers then return by Friday and persist into the weekend as a series of storm systems impact the region.

Sacramento Weather:

Warm and dry weather continues today, increasing chances of convective precipitation beginning Thursday night and through the weekend.

Weather

WEATHER SYNOPSIS BY REGION:

CENTRAL CALIFORNIA AND SOUTHERN SAN JOAQUIN VALLEY:

Hanford Weather:

Much above normal temperatures will continue across Central California through Thursday with possible record breaking today. Otherwise unsettled weather will impact the region Thursday night through the weekend with increased potential for showers and thunderstorms across our area by the end of the week.

SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA:

Los Angeles Weather:

Well above normal temperatures will continue into Wednesday due to high pressure and offshore flow. A couple of low pressure systems will bring cooler weather and a chance of rain to most of the area for the end of the week and the weekend. The active weather pattern may continue into early next week.

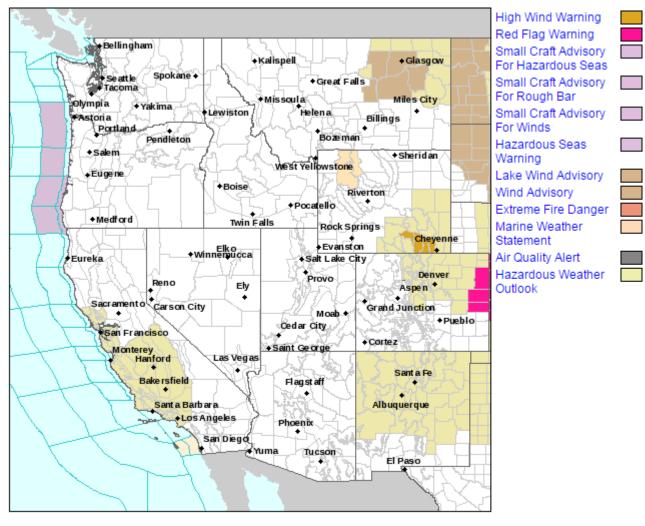

Extreme Southwestern California including Orange, San Diego, Western Riverside and Southwestern San Bernardino Counties: Coastal fog, thin high clouds, and areas of strong offshore winds will start our day. High pressure aloft will bring us a very warm day today. The winds will decrease during the day. A low pressure system to our southwest will bring more clouds and some showers Thursday and Friday. Another low pressure trough will bring a better chance of showers and colder weather over the weekend. The unsettled weather pattern will continue next week with periods of showers.

Southeast California Weather:

The warmest temperatures so far this year will peak today with lower elevation communities seeing highs well into the 90s. An unsettled weather pattern will return to the desert southwest Thursday and continue for periods into next week yielding cooler conditions along with decent chances for rainfall.
